MASS IN A MOMENT

By Margaret Bick

The Glory to God

The "Glory to God" is sung only on Sundays and other highly festive days, and not at all during Lent or Advent. This "angelic hymn," as it is sometimes called, was not composed for use in the Mass, but there is evidence of its use, in pontifical Masses only, in the early sixth century, and possibly even earlier. First evidence of its use in a Mass with a priest is during Easter night sometime in the eighth century. The opening lines evoke the song of the angels on the night of the Nativity and flow into an outpouring of pure praise of God. The latter portion moves to praise of Christ: Son of God, Saviour of the world. It is a wonderful expression of Christian joy that we do well to carry in our hearts at all times.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

A four year old was screaming for ice cream. His mummy said "Calm down, I'll get you an ice cream sundae." The four year old said, "I don't want an ice cream Sunday, I want one now!"

How did Reese eat her ice cream?... Witherspoon

I asked the man in the ice cream van for a cone. He asked "Hundreds and thousands?" I said "No, just one".
